Information About Club:

The Amateur Writers Club of KIT's College of Engineering (Autonomous), Kolhapur, is a student-driven literary club established with the aim of promoting creativity, reading habits, and effective writing skills among students. The club provides a dynamic platform for aspiring writers, readers, poets, and speakers to express their ideas and showcase their talents through various literary and creative activities.

The club actively organizes writing workshops, brainstorming sessions, group discussions, competitions, library visits, poetry recitations, and interactive author sessions to nurture literary potential among students. Through these activities, the club encourages intellectual thinking, creativity, communication skills, and confidence among participants.

The Amateur Writers Club also focuses on bridging the gap between creativity and technology by introducing students to technical and professional writing practices. The club promotes student engagement through official platforms and creates an environment where literature, expression, and innovation are appreciated. By conducting events such as Mehfil, Vachan Prerana Din, Marathi Bhasha Din, and Author Talks, the club successfully inspires students to explore literature and develop their personal and professional communication abilities.

Summary of Each Activity:

1. Mehfil - 17/10/2026

The Amateur Writers' Club organized "Mehfil," an informal literary gathering that provided students with a creative platform to express themselves through poetry, storytelling, singing, and open-mic performances. The event encouraged students to share their thoughts and artistic talents in a supportive and interactive environment. Participants enthusiastically presented self-written poems, short stories, and musical performances, which helped in enhancing confidence, communication skills, and stage presence. The event successfully created a vibrant literary atmosphere on campus and motivated students to actively participate in creative activities.

2. Vachan Prerana Din -15/10/2026

The club celebrated "Vachan Prerana Din" with the objective of promoting reading habits among students and faculty members. Various reading-based activities and discussions were conducted to encourage participants to explore literature and develop regular reading practices. The event highlighted the importance of reading in personal growth, communication, and academic development. Students actively participated and shared their views on books, authors, and literary works, making the program informative and inspiring.

3. Marathi Bhasha Din -27/02/2026

On the occasion of Marathi Bhasha Din, the club organized activities to celebrate and promote Marathi language and literature. Students participated in recitation of Marathi poems, storytelling, article reading, and literary discussions. The event aimed to encourage appreciation for regional literature and cultural heritage while improving language skills and confidence among participants. The celebration created awareness regarding the richness of Marathi literature and motivated students to preserve and promote their native language
